

The Editing Process- Retouching

Most of us have things we don't like about our appearance but they are also the marks that make us who we are.

When im editing children i do not remove any permanent markings such as scars & birthmarks unless the parents ask me to do so.

I generally remove red or flaky skin, milk spots, chicken pox and bruises however if parents would rather i didnt i will respect their decision.

I will ensure that i never lose the important elements during the editing process such as those newborn skin folds and their delicate hairs.

Any Questions then please do not hesitate to get in touch